RISK DISCLOSURE:

Investment Fund Services

Investment involves risks. The price of funds fluctuates, sometimes dramatically. The price of funds may move up or down and may become valueless. Losses may be incurred rather than profits made as a result of buying and selling funds. Past performance is no guide to future performance. Before making any investment decision, investors should consider their investment experience, objectives and risk tolerance level and read carefully the terms and conditions and the risk factors contained in the relevant offering documents. If investors are in doubt about the nature of or the risks associated with this investment product, investors should obtain necessary and appropriate professional advice before investing.

Foreign Currency Trading

Foreign currency trading involves risks. Foreign currency investments are subject to exchange rate fluctuation which may provide both opportunities and risks. The fluctuation in the exchange rate of foreign currency may result in losses in the event that the customer converts the foreign currency into Hong Kong dollars or other foreign currencies. Foreign currency rates of exchange may adversely affect the value, price or income of any security or related investment mentioned in this document. This document does not purport to identify all the risks that may be involved in the product or investments referred to in this document. Before making any investment decision, investors should read and understand the offering documents of such product, including but not restricted to the risk disclosure statement and health warning.

Currency Risk (RMB)

Exchange of renminbi (RMB) to HKD or other currencies is subject to currency exchange rate fluctuation. Customers should bear the risk of RMB exchange rate fluctuations which may cause profit or loss if customer chooses to convert RMB to HKD or other currencies. RMB is currently subject to exchange controls imposed by the PRC government, the exchange rate may be easily affected by change in government policies.

Risks involved with the Southbound Scheme of Cross-boundary Wealth Management Connect

Exchange rate risks

Mainland investors who hold RMB will be exposed to currency risks when they invest in a product denominated in Hong Kong dollars or foreign currencies due to the need for the conversion of RMB into any of such currency. During the conversion, investors will also incur currency conversion costs. Even if the price of the asset denominated in a non-RMB currency remains the same when investors purchase it and when investors redeem / sell it, they will still incur a loss when they convert the redemption / sale proceeds into RMB if such non-RMB currency has depreciated. Exchange rates of RMB are quoted in different markets; the onshore rate is being referred as "CNY" and the offshore rate (i.e. when traded in Hong Kong) is being referred as "CNH". When calculating the value of the RMB class fund or the RMB denominated assets or conducting RMB foreign exchange, CNH will be used. Although CNY and CNH represent the same currency, they do not necessarily have the same exchange rate and may not move in the same direction.

Changes in the exchange rate of non-RMB currencies will affect the profits and debts, etc. of businesses. Such effects will be more significant to companies engaging in exports and having debts denominated in such non-RMB currencies.

Risks under quota management

Under the aggregate and individual investor quota arrangement, once the aggregate quota or individual investor quota is used up, instructions for funds remittances from the Mainland to Hong Kong under the Southbound Scheme may be put on hold.

Regulatory risks

Investor assets received or held on the Mainland are subject to the applicable laws and regulations of the People's Republic of China ("PRC") which may be different from the Securities and Futures Ordinance (Cap. 571 of the Laws of Hong Kong) and the rules made thereunder. Investors should familiarize themselves with and observe the applicable laws, rules and regulations of the PRC concerning the Southbound Scheme.

Unless the context requires otherwise, this document does not constitute any offer, invitation or recommendation to any person to enter into any investment / foreign currency transaction nor does it constitute any prediction of likely future movements in prices of any investment products / foreign currencies.

This document has not been reviewed by the Securities and Futures Commission or any regulatory authority in Hong Kong.
